

Is Air France Compensation for Cancelled Flights? [Full Compensation Guide]

When your Air France flight gets cancelled, it's natural to wonder if you're entitled to compensation under European Union regulations and Air France's policies +1-(855)-838-(4886). Air France follows EU Regulation 261/2004, which protects passengers traveling from or within the EU, offering financial compensation and assistance depending on the situation +1-(855)-838-(4886).

If your Air France flight is cancelled without at least 14 days' notice before departure, you may be eligible for compensation ranging between €250 and €600, depending on the flight distance and delay in reaching your destination +1-(855)-838-(4886). For short flights under 1,500 km, passengers can claim €250, while medium-haul flights between 1,500 and 3,500 km may qualify for €400 +1-(855)-838-(4886). Long-haul international flights over 3,500 km could receive €600 in compensation, provided the cancellation was within the airline's control +1-(855)-838-(4886).

However, Air France is not required to pay compensation if the cancellation occurred due to extraordinary circumstances, such as severe weather, air traffic control restrictions, security risks, or strikes affecting airport operations +1-(855)-838-(4886). In these cases, passengers are instead entitled to assistance, such as rebooking on the next available flight, hotel accommodation if needed, and meal vouchers while waiting +1-(855)-838-(4886).

Air France also offers passengers the option of a refund if they choose not to travel after a cancellation +1-(855)-838-(4886). Refunds are typically processed within seven business days, covering the unused portion of the ticket +1-(855)-838-(4886). If you decide to continue your journey, Air France will arrange a rerouting at no additional cost or provide an alternate flight to your final destination as soon as possible +1-(855)-838-(4886).

Passengers should also note that Air France provides care and assistance during long delays resulting from cancellations +1-(855)-838-(4886). This includes meals, refreshments, hotel stays for overnight delays, and airport transfers, depending on the waiting period +1-(855)-838-(4886). You can claim these benefits directly at the airport's Air France service desk or by contacting their global support team +1-(855)-838-(4886).

To request compensation or a refund, travelers should submit a claim via the official Air France website, where an online form allows you to provide your booking details, reason for cancellation, and any supporting documents +1-(855)-838-(4886). The claim review process usually takes a few weeks, and approved claims are paid directly to the passenger's bank account +1-(855)-838-(4886).

For additional help, you can reach out to Air France customer service directly for guidance on eligibility and the claim process +1-(855)-838-(4886). Having your booking reference, flight number, and cancellation notice ready will help speed up the assistance +1-(855)-838-(4886).

In summary, Air France does compensate passengers for flight cancellations under certain conditions outlined by EU Regulation 261/2004 +1-(855)-838-(4886). While extraordinary situations may exempt compensation, passengers are still protected by rebooking rights, refund options, and care assistance +1-(855)-838-(4886). For the latest updates or to file a compensation claim, it's recommended to visit the official Air France website or call customer service at +1-(855)-838-(4886).